

Dr. Kathleen Van Voorhis is the CEO of the Community Investment Alliance, which works with BIPOC and faith communities to build capacity and create strategic plans for homelessness and community-based affordable housing. Dr. Van Voorhis holds a Ph.D. in Public Policy and Administration from Walden University and a Master's in Public Administration from the University of Colorado Denver.

Throughout her career, she has held a variety of leadership roles in emergency sheltering, service design, delivery coordination, and coalition building. She has worked to design and implement innovative solutions to homelessness and food insecurity around the United States and abroad, and recently spearheaded the Safe Outdoor Space concept in Denver.

Dr. Van Voorhis has also led advocacy efforts to create positive social change at the local, state, and federal levels around homelessness, housing, food insecurity, and migrant rights.
